How we use cookies

A cookie is a small file which asks permission to be placed on your own computer. Once you agree, the file is added and the cookie helps analyse web traffic or lets you know when you visit a particular site. Cookies allow our website to respond to you as an individual. The web application can tailor its operations to your needs and remembers information about your preferences.

Our cookies contain no name or address information or any information that will enable anyone to contact you via telephone, e-mail or any other means.

Our website monitors pages that are being used. This helps us analyse data about webpage traffic and improve our website and service. We use this information for statistical analysis purposes only. This information is not shared with anyone outside our organisation.

You can choose to accept or decline cookies. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser setting to decline cookies.

Links to other websites

Our website may contain links to other complimentary websites. Once you have used these links to leave our site we do not have any control over that website. We, therefore, cannot be responsible for the protection and privacy of any information which you provide whilst visiting such sites and such sites are not governed by this privacy statement.

Controlling your personal information

Getting Here Ltd is committed to responsible data management and subscribes to the principles of data protection legislation in United Kingdom.

We will not sell, distribute or lease your personal information to third parties unless we are required by law to do so.

You may request details of the personal information which we hold about you under the Data Protection Act 1998. A small fee will be payable. If you would like a copy of the information held on you please write to our company address which is shown below.
